Promjene u pristupu medicinskim informacijama u Hrvatskoj

Jelka Petrak
Središnja medicinska knjižnica
Medicinski fakultet u Zagrebu

No one who wishes to practice medicine, either with safety to others, or credit to himself, will incline to remain ignorant of any discovery which time or attention has brought to light. But it is well known that the greatest part of those who are engaged in the actual prosecution of this art, have neither leisure nor opportunity for very extensive reading. Any expedient, therefore, which would serve to communicate new discoveries, without the necessity of examining a great variety of books, must have some influence in forwarding the improvement of the medical are.

Anonimno, 1773.
